

Dramatize the story of the bleeding woman

Let's step into the ancient town of Capernaum, where Jesus encounters the woman with the issue of blood. This powerful and compassionate moment unfolds in the Gospel accounts of Matthew, Mark, and Luke. Here's a dramatized version of her story:

Title: "Healing in the Hem of His Garment"

Setting: A dusty street in Capernaum.

Characters:

- Jesus (Compassionate and powerful)
 - Woman with the Issue of Blood (Desperate, isolated, and determined)

Scene: The crowded marketplace.

(The woman, frail and weak, slips through the bustling crowd.)

Woman: (to herself) Twelve years. Twelve long years of bleeding, of isolation, of being cast out. I've tried every remedy, every physician. My coins are gone, and my hope wanes. But they say Jesus heals. Perhaps even me.

(Jesus walks ahead, surrounded by curious onlookers.)

Jesus: (to His disciples) "Someone touched me. I felt power go out."

Disciple: "Master, the crowd presses in on all sides."

(The woman, trembling, reaches out and touches the hem of Jesus' garment.)

Woman: (whispers) "If I touch even His garments, I will be made well."

(Instantly, the flow of blood ceases.)

Jesus: (turns, eyes searching) "Who touched me?"

Disciple: "Lord, everyone is pressing against you."

Jesus: (gentle but insistent) "No, someone intentionally sought healing."

(The woman falls at Jesus' feet, fear in her eyes.)

Woman: "It was me. Forgive me, Rabbi. I broke the purity laws."

Jesus: (softly) "Daughter, your faith has healed you. Go in peace."

In this encounter, Jesus not only heals her body but restores her dignity. The outcast becomes a cherished daughter. Her faith, as small as a touch, brings wholeness. 🌞
